Recommendation Rec(2001)19 of the Committee of Ministers to member states on the participation of citizens in local public life

"Accord major importance to communication between public authorities and citizens and encourage local leaders to give emphasis to citizens' participation and careful consideration to their demands and expectations, so as to provide an appropriate response to the needs which they express.

Adopt a comprehensive approach to the issue of citizens' participation, having regard both to the machinery of representative democracy and to the forms of direct participation in the decision-making process and the management of local affairs."

"ideal types" of participation

Citizens as partners:

Information, consultation and public participation in policy-making (OECD, 2001)

idea gathering

citizens are involved as idea providers; public bodies commit to use citizens' proposals as input in their own activities, e.g., policy definition

consultation

citizens gather and refine ideas, rate and select them; public bodies commit provide feedback to selected ideas

deliberation

citizens gather, refine, rate and select ideas in a structured process which ends with an actual decision, e.g., funds allocation; public bodies commit to implement the decision.
